DENTISTRY PAINLESS

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 21.—

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 21.—After three years of patient research two professors of Geneva, Swatzerland, have discovered a new annesthetic which, it is asserted, promises to revolutionize the pinctice of dentistry.

In reporting this to the State Department Cousui Liefeld, at Frieburg, Germany, states that, fluing the tervous system was influenced by colored light, the professors discovered, after experimenting with each hue, that bue had an extraordinary southing effect on the preves.

The Consul says a tooth may be pain-lessly extracted with none of the after-effects on the system by sautting the patent in a dark room and exposing his eyes to a bibe light of sixteen caudic pawer for three minutes; causing him to io,e all sense of pain, although at the same time, retaining his senses.
